which is pleasing, but I can't let you in on it, though why you should not guess if you want, is not my affair.

It is this: Keep your ears open for an announcement in the near future. It's a wedding. Weddings are always blee, aren't they? The man is a peach! I do not know the girl so well but I do not know the girl so well but I. I do not know the girl so well, but I hear she is very nice. They are not ready to announce it yet, but the wee bird who told me said it would be announced in about two weeks, so I'll be able to tell you then. And the wedding will be next month. The man is a Philadelphian, and is very tall, rather fair and wonderfully well built. He has been a great beau for some years. Now can you guess?

The death of Mrs. Thomas Dolan, in Torresdale on Wednesday, came as a great shock to her family and friends, for, though advanced in years, Mrs. for the summer in the summer home on the Delaware river when death came.

The Clarence Dolans were in New poeted and Wrs. Dolan were in New to have entertained at a large dinner last evening. Of course, the invitations were immediately recalled and Mr. Dolan left at once for Torresdale, to be followed yesterday by his wife and daughters. The Tom Dolans were nearer home, but I understand that they were unable to reach Torresdale before Mrs. Dolan were married when quite young, and Mrs. Dolan was a most devoted wife and mother. She was widely known for her goodness and kindliness and will be greatly missed. The funeral will be private, the day and hour not being given out by the family.
